METCALF - HINCKLEY OIL PROPERTIES AT HUNTINGTON BEACH

Property Is Located in Heart of New Oil Field—Glendale Man Is Promoter

OIL EXPERT AT HEAD

Party From This City Made Automobile Trip Yesterday to Inspect Land

A party of Glendalians which included Mr. and Mrs. John McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bronnenberg, Miss S. M. Thomas, W. I. Blanchard and C. O. Pulliam, motored to Huntington Beach to view the new oil field that is just being developed there and where locations have been secured by the Metcalf-Hinckley Company, of which D. H. Smith of this city is one of the directors and in which a number of other citizens have invested. Mr. Hinckley, who formerly lived on North Jackson street and who was one of the partners in the Hinckley-Beach Canning Company is well known here, and Mr. Metcalf is not unknown as he also has lived in our city. Of the party was also Brooks Miller, a former resident and member of the firm Altom, Miller & Co.

Mr. Metcalf is an oil expert who has been in the employ of the big companies for years locating oil properties, going out with the geologists and selecting lands which the companies purchased on his O. K. and recommendation. He is now getting into the game for himself and has selected his properties at Huntington beach and helped to organize the company that will finance the sinking of wells.

The locations inspected yesterday are in a narrow belt between two restricted areas which Mr. Metcalf considers a great advantage as it will draw from the oil deposits in the restricted area. Within a stone's throw is the Huntington-Pantages well which is 200 feet in oil and which recently started to blow at the rate of 2000 barrels a day. Almost immediately adjoining is 75 acres owned by the Standard Oil for which it paid $250,000 with a royalty agreement to the original owner of 25 per cent.

The derrick for the first well the Metcalf-Hinckley Company is sinking is nearly completed and contracts for drilling and materials were being signed to the end that the work may be pushed as rapidly as possible, and bring in a well within a few weeks. Present plans call for three wells on this property. The company also owns leases for 80 acres at some distance from the sites to be immediately improved. Oil sand is said to lie at a depth of 2300 feet and to be 700 feet deep which insures long-lived wells.

The situation is very attractive on a knoll improved with thrifty pine trees. In the restricted district a few feet away is a handsome school house.

If the well to be sunk taps the pool of oil Mr. Metcalf is confident of finding, it will be very favorably situated as an oil pipe line is only 500 feet away.

The company is placing upon the market only $200,000 of stock which it expects will all be subscribed in a short time.

WEDDING OF PROMINENT EASTERN PEOPLE SOLEMNIZED

FULTON, Mo., May 25.—The wedding of G. W. Duvall, jr., of Kansas City, and Miss Saida Sherman of Oklahoma City, was frustrated early today when unidentified parties kidnaped and whisked Miss Sherman away in a high powered automobile. Duvall gave pursuit, but his car suffered a breakdown.

FLORAL PARADE OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Winning Lass and Lad From Broadway and Cerritos Schools

The postponed parade of children of the city schools came off Tuesday afternoon at Intermediate and was a very pretty spectacle for the onlookers. It also proved highly satisfactory to the contestants, so everybody was pleased.

Fifty entries were in line. Not all the vehicles which included automobiles, tricycles, doll carriages, toy autos, wagons and the like, were adorned with flowers but they were all exceedingly pretty in decoration of some sort. Also there were children in costume without floats of any description.

The judges were conscientious in their study of the long array of competitors and awarded the first prize for boys to Richard Gaede, a first grade pupil of Cerritos avenue. His float was a tricycle in a red, white and blue dress. He rode it and further carried out the patriotic idea by wearing a sailor suit. His prize was a flash light.

To Doris Forbes of Broadway went the prize for the best entry for a girl. Her float was a doll buggy decorated with red roses and her prize was a pretty hair ribbon bow.

Arthur Cressey played the drum to which the children marched and did it very well. Each child received some favor as a reward for participation, a pencil or small toy.

DEPUTY SHERIFF TO BE TRIED JUNE 7 FOR SPEEDING

R. Lee Coutts, deputy sheriff, who was arrested on Colorado street by Officer Collins of this city, for speeding in excess of traffic regulations, on the 19th, called at the city hall yesterday and pleaded "not guilty," and asked for a jury trial. His request was granted and the case set for June 7, at 10 a. m., by Judge Lowe. Coutts' dfense, it is said, will be that he was on official business.

MARGARET DOYLE'S STRANGE STORY

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Police today investigated a strange tale told by Mrs. Margaret Doyle, 50, who is at the Central Emergency hospital suffering from two fractured ribs, body bruises and a badly lacerated wrist.

According to the story she told hospital authorities, she was assaulted with a knife and an axe by John Hoffner, whose wife she was taking care of, because she prepared delicacies for Mrs. Hoffner, who has been ill. She claimed that Mrs. Hoffner was being forced to live on old meats and cast-off foods by Hoffner, who, according to her story, became enraged whenever delicacies were prepared for the sick wife. Hoffner is being sought by the police and Mrs. Hoffner will be questioned for her version of the affair.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Revisions and Additions Were Made to By-Laws of Club — Most Important Is That of Three Members to Board of Directors, Making it a Body of Twelve Instead of Nine—Dues Increased From $4 to $6 a Year—Change Date of Club Meetings From Second and Fourth Tuesday of Month to Every Tuesday in Club Year

At the annual meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, held yesterday afternoon, in Masonic Temple, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson; first vice president, Mrs. A. M. Williams; second vice president, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker; recording secretary, Mrs. Oliver O. Clark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mabel M. Rudy; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Hunt; director, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward.

Several revisions and additions were made to the by-laws of the club. Among the most important of these are the addition of three members to the board of directors, making it a body of 12 instead of nine; increasing the amount allowed the board from $100 to $200; increasing the dues from $4 a year to $6 a year; changing the date of club meetings from the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month to every Tuesday in the club year.

Interesting discussions on all these changes were participated in by many of the large number of members present.

Reports were made by the president, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, first vice president, Mrs. C. H. Temple; second vice president, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter N. Stamps; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mabel M. Rudy; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Hunt; auditor, Mrs. Bott.

The standing committees also made reports through their chairmen, as follows: For the program committee, Mrs. W. E. Evans; yearbook and printing, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker; decoration, Mrs. Walter Jones; courtesy, Mrs. Oliver O. Clark; hospitality, Mrs. L. W. Sinclair; calling, Mrs. F. C. Ayars; remembrance, Mrs. H. B. Lynch; philanthropy, Mrs L. W. Bosserman; local relief, Mrs. S. C. Archer; civics, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett; legislative, E. W. W. Hayward.

Miss Daniels, publicity chairman, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, federation secretary; Mrs. A. W. Tower, general curator; Mrs. John Robert White, parliamentarian, also gave interesting reports, as did the curators of the various sections: Mrs. A. M. Williams, of the literary section; Mrs. O. E. Von Oven, of the Shakespeare section; Mrs. R. E. Chase, of the drama section; Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, of the parliamentary law section, and Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, of the legislative section.

All of these reports were highly satisfactory and were unanimously accepted by the club, which sees in the admirable work accomplished bright promise of success for next year's work.

CIRCLE CLUB SERVES LUNCHEON

About 80 girls attended the meeting at the Baptist church last night of the Christian Circle Club. The ladies of the Central Christian church served a delicious lunch of hot baked beans, sandwiches, cocoa and cake, after which the president, Mildred Elliott, took charge of the meeting. Esther Black was elected treasurer. The club has had small display cards printed and these were distributed to the girls to be used to advertise the club and to help bring the "other girl."

The club has no regular dues but a silver offering is taken to meet any expenses the club may have.

Miss Soper, a teacher in the high school has charge of the Bible study. She devoted the time last night to a general review of the four gospels in preparation for an extensive study of the gospel of Mark. The girls were urged to study the first two chapters of Mark for next week's lesson and to bring "another girl" to the meeting.

UNIQUE PROGRAM PUT ON BY SCHOOLS

Magazine, Including Cover and Illustrations, Furnishes Motif for Program

A fine audience thoroughly enjoyed the unique entertainment put on at Intermediate Tuesday evening as part of the interrupted festival of the Parent-Teacher federation. Each school contributed a number and the competition put teachers and pupils on their metal. In general charge of the program was Mrs. H. V. Henry.

What might be termed a motif in its carrying out, was a supposed magazine containing advertisements which took the form of highly original and attractive tableaux.

A pretty high school girl, garbed according to the latest mode and representing the fashion lady, furnished the illustration for the cover of the magazine. Then came an advertisement of "Jello," put on by Colorado street school, in which pupils were discovered in a group holding dishes filled with jello and for a background had banners advertising their product.

A Los Angeles creamery ad came next by Cerritos avenue school, which had the athletic boy and girl in Buster Moore and Harriet Light, with Buster McConnell and Allison Goldsborcugh devouring ice cream cones.

To advertise Campbell's soups, a little girl and little boy from Columbus avenue, sang a ditty about them.

Cream of Wheat was a pantomime by Pacific avenue in which the name was built up with lettered blocks.

After that came an ambitious number by Intermediate, a female minstrel show staged by the girls' glee club, with a song and dance that brought the house down in tumults of applause by one of the members garbed in a green dress, red stockings, and carrying a purple umbrella. Toward the close of the number, the boys' glee club, as colored minstrels in working attire, joined the girls and sang a song about "Working for the Railroad."

Doran street school provided a couple of charming little dancers who

ANNUAL CONVENTION OPENS YESTERDAY IN POMONA

Woman's Christian Temperance Union Begins Four-Day Session

The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Southern California is opened in Pomona yesterday for a four-day session.

A fine program has been prepared. The list of speakers includes Mrs. Stella Irvine of Riverside; Rev. Gustave Briegleb of West Lake church, Los Angeles; James Walton, Mrs. Mae Guthrie Pongier and Senator Lyman King.

The Glendale organization sent as delegates Mmes. Edith Dockeray, Marie M. Yeoman, county president; R. J. Smart, Marie Gifford, Nannie Palmer, Hattie Gaylord, T. L. Brown, and Edith Glaffey.

BODY OF GEORGE LEROY HELD FOR FURTHER IDENTIFICATION

SHAWNEE, Okla., May 25.—Chief of Police Ira Simms is holding the body of "George" Leroy here today for further identification under the belief that it is the body of Eugene Leroy, wanted at Detroit in connection with the famous trunk murder mystery. Leroy was killed here by a train last Friday. His description closely tallies with the missing Leroy or Fernandez of Detroit. A "pal" who was with Leroy when he was killed, said he was an expert mechanic and was "beating his way" south from St. Paul.

C. OF C. ACTS ON HAVING FORUMS

There was quite a debate at the chamber of commerce directorate meeting, Tuesday, over the question of having regular forum meetings. Jesse Smith argued it would be far better to have them when some question of special interest comes up for discussion and then for all members to boost to make it a big, successful meeting. Directors finally voted to leave the matter of evening forums to the discretion of the secretary and the forum committee, but to have noon forums once a month. Director Kent urged that the chamber follow the practice of most chambers and civic bodies in having a community sing to open the meeting. The directors accepted the suggestion and instructed Secretary Rhoades to secure song pamphlets to be used on such occasions.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC FILES DEMURRER

Denies Right of City to Pass Ordinance Regulating Speed of Trains

At the city hall, Tuesday morning, before Judge Lowe, attorneys for the Pacific Electric filed a demurrer denying the right of the city of Glendale to pass an ordinance regulating the Pacific Electric or the speed at which its trains are run. The hearing of the case was set by Judge Lowe for next Friday morning.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

DUBLIN, May 25.—The most gigantic outburst of violence in Dublin since the Sinn Fein Easter rebellion in 1916 flared up here today with an attempt to burn the government buildings. Some persons were killed, including members of the staff of the custom house, who were shot down by mistake but up to this afternoon it was impossible to get the exact number of casualties. The damage was estimated at about $5,000,000.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Former United States Senator W. A. Clark of Montana announced here today that he has sold his one-half interest in the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad company to the Union Pacific Railroad company. The deal gives the Union Pacific complete control over the Los Angeles and Salt Lake line.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The senate tackled the $500,000,000 "bigger American navy" appropriations bill again today, in the hope of disposing of it finally by nightfall.

SEATTLE, May 25.—J. E. Mahoney, 37, on parole from Walla Walla penitentiary on a sentence of five years for beating and robbing a man in Spokane in 1917, is held here today on a technical charge of first degree forgery, while police in St. Paul are being asked to hunt for his wife, Kate Mooers Mahoney, 72 years old, owner of Seattle property valued at more than $250,000. Mahoney was married in February and in April the couple left for St. Paul on a wedding trip. The last heard of Mrs. Mahoney was when she wrote from the St. Paul hotel.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The Presidential yacht Mayflower, with President and Mars Harding and a party of friends on board, returning from New York, docked at the navy yard here at 10:20 this morning. The presidential party went from the navy yard to the White House where the President took up his work at the executive offices, following an absence since Saturday afternoon.

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—Roy Gardner, the gentlemanly bandit, as he has become known by police and federal officers, went through four hours of grilling last night without wavering in his denial of having robbed the Pacific limited mail coach near New Castle, last Friday.

GRADUATION OF MISS DORA HEWITT

Secures Diploma of Nurse After Three Years of Hospital Training

Miss Dora Hewitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Hewitt of Gardena avenue, was graduated Tuesday night from the Methodist hospital, with a class of 16 which has completed a three-year course. The exercises took place in the University Methodist church, where the grand march of undergraduate nurses started at 8 p. m., the graduates coming last. The address of the evening was made by Dr. W. L. Y. Davis, superintendent of the Pasadena district.

Miss Hewitt will spend a week at home and then take up special work under Dr. Shoemaker.

TRUSTEES OF SCHOOL PAID ONCE A YEAR WITH BIG BANQUET AT G. U. H. S.

Students in the domestic science department of Glendale high are shrewd and know that the way to a man's heart and often to a woman's as well is through the stomach and so once a year that department gives a dinner to trustees of the school and their wives with a few other friends and officials thrown in for good measure. It is always a dinner that lives in the memory not alone because of its menu, but also because of the dainty manner in which it is served.

This year's dinner came off Tuesday night in the bungalow of the department, when advanced students under Miss Ellen Hanson, head of the department, did themselves proud no matter from what angle their achievement may be viewed.

The colors of the school, red and black, featured the affair wherever it was possible to bring them in. Scarlet carnations filled a basket which centered the big table and bowls at either end and between these bits of color, artfully disposed, were tall red and black candles in crystal holders tied with scarlet tulle. Nut baskets of scarlet paper tipped with black, and hand-painted place card, also the work of the young hostesses were at each plate. These place cards were simple but clever. At one end was a huge red and black G enclosing a pen and ink vignette of the high school with a blank space at the right for the guest's name.

Places were laid for Principal George U. Moyse and Mrs. Moyse, Dr. and Mrs. H. V. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Business Manager Irving H Oliver and Mrs. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, Mr. and Mrs. T. D.

GREAT PREPARATION FOR MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

Many Societies and Organizations Have Been Invited to Take Part

BIG DAY IN GLENDALE

Services at Memorial Park Will Be Inspiring and On Elaborate Scale

Preparations for the Memorial Day parade and exercises at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, are rapidly being completed and, weather permitting, it should be a great day in Glendale's history.

More than 50 organizations and societies have been invited to take part in the parade which will be on a much larger and more inspiring scale than in previous years, and the services at the Memorial park will be rendered more beautiful and impressive than ever.

N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., has been greatly honored by President Harding in that the President has wired this post to place a wreath in his name on the symbolic grave for the unknown dead.

The line of march for the parade has not as yet been announced by Captain Nicoles, marshal of the parade, but it will be arranged in such a manner as to cause as little inconvenience as possible to the participants.

The presence of the American Legion Band of 30 pieces has been assured and the Glendale National Guard Company, commanded by Capt. T. D. Watson, will also be in line in full strength. These boys have been drilling faithfully for the event and will make a good showing.

The city trustees will head the line of march together with the Grand Army Veterans in autos and the American Legion. A detailed program of the parade will appear in the Glendale Daily Press at a later date.

All organizations who have not as yet signified their intention to take part are requested to notify the adjutant, Joseph V. Griffin at Glendale 97 at the earliest possible moment so that they can be assigned to their place in line.

MUSIC SECTION MEETS TOMORROW

The music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will meet on Friday afternoon at the high school.

Mrs. Dora Gibson will be hostess and the program will be given under her direction by the students of the high school.

WOMAN RENT REBEL FIGHTS RAISE AS MATTER OF DUTY

Business Woman and Mother Risks Whole Business Career to Champion Cause of Those Fighting High Rents and Profiteering—Feels Duty to Fight Greed

By MARGERY REX
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 25.—"When my son went to war, I told him he must fight not Germans, nor hate them, but fight and kill Greed!

"When my son returned from war I was confronted with an $800 raise in rent."

This is one phase of the fight of Mrs. Leila Tinsley of Aeolian Hall, against her landlords. An increase in rent has caused her protest and refusal to pay, which refusal, in turn, has caused the owners of the property to begin dispossess proceedings.

Add to the rhythms that have throbbed through Aeolian Hall, the rocking chair beat of Mrs. Tinsley, the "rent rebel," who, she says, would produce harmony. Agents for the building, however, are sure she is bent upon causing discord.

Ready for Finish Fight

Fortified by faith, earnest in her desire to fight greed, as she says, Mrs. Tinsley is holding out against the legal proceedings brought to oust her.

Large increase in her office rental, paid for one year under protest, finally caused Mrs. Tinsley on May 2, of this year, to reduce her own rent and bravely face the consequences.

She will appear before the bar as an army with banners. Behind her stand in spirit that ancient forebear who signed the Declaration of Independence, that other who served as chaplain in congress during the days of Clay, Calhoun and Webster and another relative who dared to be a Republican in the state of Virginia, where only the brave could afford to offend by such affiliations.

Feels It Duty to Fight

"I am sacrificing a lot in this affair," said Mrs. Tinsley as she rocked in the tapestry covered chair that affords her many moments of rest during the busy day.

"It is a case of deciding whether or not my will or my Father's will shall be done. My will tells me that I am risking my business, running the chance of being called a fanatic, or possibly an unbalanced woman, and that I am apt to lose the sympathy of my loved ones.

"The will of my Father urges me to fight greed, to give up my personal interests to serve His cause.

"I realize the opportunities for gain that must beset people in these days. Any average property owner wants to get all he can and yields to the temptation.

"It was hard at first. I paid the enormous raise in rent for a year under protest. I was not strong enough to resist. But I have grown in faith and understanding."

The quiet, gently-bred "rebel"—she was born in Virginia, by the way—sat thoughtfully for a few minutes and then told the cause of her abstraction.

"I remember when my husband died—it was in the panic of '95," she began. "I was left with three children and myself to care for. My son, Harold, now 26 and late of the U. S. marines, was only three months old then. There was some insurance which lasted barely two years. I had a dreadful time to get a start at self-support.

"After awhile I got into a government position in Alexandria, Va. In those days Susan B. Anthony had headquarters at the Capitol. I used to spend my vacations there among the leaders of what was the Woman's Party—they had another name for it then, which I have forgotten.

"I always wanted to see progress and right triumph in the world, and for many years sought some inspiration and comfort that was never present in anyone I ever knew, no matter how dearly beloved. I left the religion in which I had been reared. It was too harsh and did not satisfy me. I tried several—even fell into atheism. About four years ago I began to read Swedenborg. There I found peace, happiness and courage. It completely satisfied me. I learned to apply spirituality to life.

Woman Must Cleanse Finance

"It is the time for woman to take hold in business and manifest her will. She must cleanse financial affairs today. She must lend a spiritual side to commerce.

"The men who are slaves to greed crucify our Heavenly Father. Selfishness stands in their light.

"The Aeolian Company has three lawyers to help them fight me.

"I have told them it is a fight of their fear against my fearlessness.

In 1916 Mrs. Tinsley paid $1080 a year rental for her suite. May 1, 1919, the rent was raised to $1200 and in November of that year Mrs. Tinsley was notified that on the coming first of May the yearly price of her rooms would be $2000. This she paid, for one year under continual protest, but on May 2 of this year she reduced her own rent.

Palace Grand

Thomas Meighan, scored decisively in his latest photoplay, "The City of Silent Men" at the Palace Grand, where this fine Paramount picture is shown again today for the last time.

The story deals with a country boy who goes to the city and falling into the hands of crooks, unconsciously aids in the commission of a crime and although innocent, is sentenced to prison. He makes his escape and going to California, he assumes another name and becomes superintendent of a factory. Then love enters his life and on his wedding day the shadow of the past rises before him.

How he regains happiness makes a delightful story.

"The Jockey," Clyde Cook's newest comedy, is a special added attraction on this bill.

FRANCE CENSORS ALL DISPATCHES

By NEWTON C. PARKE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 24.—All cable messages sent from Paris to the United States, including both newspaper dispatches and ordinary business cables, are still subject to a form of government censorship resulting in delay.

So far as is known here, no protest has been made by Washington, though the state department recently sent a note to the British foreign office complaining that messages sent through London were subject to British censorship and that American trade secrets might thereby fall into the hands of the British.

The French censorship is operated by the ministry of the interior and is described by the government as a purely police measure. An official from the ministry occupies a room at the central telegraph station. Before any cable is sent to America or any other country it must pass his inspection.

Assurance was given the American press recently that this censorship, in so far as it concerns dispatches to recognized newspapers and news agencies, is only perfunctory.

"When the ministry of the interior's representative sees the address of a recognized newspaper or news agency at the top of a dispatch he passes it for transmission without reading a line," the American correspondents were told. "If he is out at lunch or absent from his office messages to American newspapers go through automatically without any delay."

Inasmuch as a cablegram for America, filed at the telegraph station at the Bourse, passes through at least ten hands before it reaches its destination, it is difficult to check the statement that any resulting delay is not the fault of the censor.

In addition to this, the French foreign office exercises a kind of retroactive "censorship." Copies of dispatches sent to American newspapers are laid before the press section of the foreign office. The foreign office explains that this is done merely that it may be informed at all times of the nature of messages sent by American newspaper representatives in Paris without waiting for their dispatches to be recabled from the United States.

ECONOMY WAVE HITS HUNGARY

Magyar Nation First to Take Drastic Steps to Reduce Financial Standing

By NEWTON C. PARKE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 25.—Hungary is the first big country emerging from the war to tackle the financial problem courageously, even though the wisdom of the step she is about to take may be questioned.

France is imposing some more taxes and waiting for Germany to pay war reparations; Germany and England are imposing more taxes and waiting for a revival of their pre-war trade; Austria admits bankruptcy and is turning her affairs over to the allies and the smaller Balkan countries are crying for help.

But the Hungarian government has decided to lay a direct tax on capital, a measure proposed by French socialists as best fitted to bring France financial relief, but speedily turned down. The bill has been drafted and is about to be introduced in the Hungarian parliament in the hope that it will bring Hungary quickly to her feet.

The measure proposed by Hungary is the most radical ever presented by any modern government. It provides for a tax, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent on savings bank deposits and securities. Hungarian banks will thus be forced to turn over to the government a sum estimated at about half a million dollars.

Front-Line Service Rewarded

The most unique feature of the bill is the distinction, for purposes of taxation, between men who actually served at the front during the war and those who occupied "dug-out" positions in the rear. The latter will be heavily taxed according to their wealth and some of them will be forced to turn over 50 per cent of their incomes. But a millionaire who himself served in the rear but lost a son in the war will be taxed in the same way as a soldier who served at the front.

The bill hits possible war-profiteers. Every manufacturer who, by urging the importance of his business, succeeded in obtaining draft exemption for his men, will be forced to pay a tax of 2000 crowns for each man thus kept from the front. This sum, together with that raised by taxation of non-combatants, will be used in paying pensions to wounded soldiers.

A tax de luxe that will make similar measures in other countries look extremely feeble is another feature of the bill. Extravagances in women's clothing will be hit hard and there are other clauses designed to drag money from the man who drinks or smokes.

In introducing the bill the chancellor of the exchequer will announce that hereafter Hungary will issue no more paper money and that the government intends to practice every economy to restore its financial condition to normal.

The first result of the enforcement of the proposed law, the government believes, will be a marked fall in the cost of living. Since the war the price of potatoes has increased by 61 times; pork 111 times and beef 68 times. Even members of once wealthy families have been unable to buy any new clothes since the war.

Make some progress every day,
Take at least one step ahead;
Leave ambition to decay
Only when your bean is dead.

CLAXTON ABLE TO PASS EDISON TEST

Wonder Man Found in Washington—Educational Commissioner Tackles Test

By MILDRED MORRIS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Boy, page Thomas Edison for Philander Priestley Claxton, United States commissioner of education and the owner of a whole string of college degrees.

Mr. Claxton is willing to claim the distinction of being the only man so far found who thinks he can pass the famous Edison test for bright minds.

Confronted today by the list of questions which is said to have had remarkable results in crushing the ambitions of college youths who yearn to work in Edison's factory, Mr. Claxton said with delightful confidence:

"Oh, I can answer most of these."

After he had gone over the questions one by one he said:

"I ought to pass. I can answer about 90 per cent of them."

Before Mr. Edison goes to the expense of coming to Washington to grab Mr. Claxton for his factory it should be stated that the reporter who conducted the commissioner of education through the test cannot conscientiously vouch for his claim.

Falls Down on Sardines

Accurate reporting demands the following revelation:

Answers to some of the questions Mr. Claxton said right out loud. Answers to others—many others—he confided only to himself.

When Mr. Claxton came to the momentous question concerning domestic sardines, he said:

"Now, where do we get domestic sardines? I don't know—Italy, I suppose."

He was hard put by the query: "What is the longest river in the world?"

"Now, what is it?" he said, appealing to the reporter.

"The Amazon," replied the bright reporter.

"The Amazon—the Nile, one of the two," said Mr. Claxton with triumph.

He admitted cheerfully he couldn't bound West Virginia offhand and hadn't the "lowdown" on copra or the manufacture of window glass.

But still Mr. Claxton was not inclined to ridicule Mr. Edison's test.

"I imagine Mr. Edison had in mind a test to show the ability of applicants to think quickly and to demonstrate their breadth of knowledge, versatility and retentiveness of memory," he said.

"Would you give such a test to an applicant for a position in your office?" he was asked.

"Well, that would depend on what I wanted him for," he answered diplomatically.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF SWINDLING

(By International News Service)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 25.—A clever scheme to defraud mail order houses is revealed in the arrest here of Mrs. Eunice H. Edgar, postmistress at Pennellville, 20 miles north of this city. Mrs. Edgar, 30 years of age and attractive, is said to have confessed having obtained through her scheme several hundred dollars worth of feminine wearing apparel. Her plan of operation consisted of enclosing with an order a check with a fictitious signature. The checks are said to have been drawn upon Baldwinsville and Phoenix State banks. Without waiting the return of the funds on the check the mail order houses shipped the articles ordered, which were received by Mrs. Edgar at different places, sometimes at the post office in Syracuse, and again in other nearby cities.

Recently a New York mail order house having received notice that a check issued by "Dorothy Pierce" had been returned as worthless instructed the Syracuse post office officials to hold a certain parcel post package addressed to Dorothy Pierce. About this time Chicago mail order houses were heard from. They, too, with other New York firms, had been caught in the scheme. A Pinkerton detective was put on the job, the arrest of Mrs. Edgar following.

Mrs. Edgar's operations, according to her confession, have extended over a period of almost a year.

The charge against Mrs. Edgar is using the mails to defraud. The penalty is a fine of $1000, five years in jail, or both.

"Oh, dear, I hope I'm not too late for the big picture," exclaimed the stout lady as she bustled into the darkened movie theater.

"Don't worry, lady, said the usher. "They're only up to the name of the fourth assistant camera man."—Detroit News.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE AND BOX SOCIAL

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the season was the dance and box social given by Mary Jane Gillette Tent, Daughters of Veterans, at their hall last evening.

Decorations in the patriotic colors were used effectively in both the dancing hall and the banquet room, potted plants, flowers and ferns adding a pretty note of contrast.

A party of 150 congenial people enjoyed the dancing to the strains of the Herbert Henning orchestra until a late hour, when the luncheon boxes were auctioned and their contents taken to the prettily appointed dining table in the banquet room, where they were enjoyed by the company, hot coffee being served by the hostesses, Mrs. Winona Crawford, Mrs. Charlotte McKee, Mrs. Queen Daner, Miss Mildred McKee and Miss Ruth Spafford, to whose energetic work the great success of the affair was due.

Punch was served during the dancing.

Several sonds and daughters of veterans eligible to the order were guests of the occasion.

The financial side of the evening was equally satisfactory, $50 being added to the fund of the tent.

It was announced that the next dance given by Mary Jane Gillette Tent will be on June 28.

UNAPPEASED

They had enjoyed a little tilt at the breakfast table, but during the day he felt as though he might have been a trifle unkind, and so took home a pretty peace offering. He placed the package in a conspicuous position, but, very pointedly, she ignored it.

"Wouldn't you like to know what is in the box?" he finally coaxed.

"No," was the unbending reply.

"Well, it is something for the one I love best in all the world," he declared ardently.

"Oh!" she responded with something very near a sniff; "I guess, then, that it is that pair of suspenders you said you needed?"—Emmett C. Hall in Judge.

COMPANY OFFICERS LIKE OUR CITY

Present at the luncheon of the chamber of commerce directors, Tuesday noon, were Mr. Gilley of the Ever-Ready Heater Company and two of his associates in Glendale's new industry. They were cordially welcomed by members and in response Mr. Gilley said:

"We appreciate the whole-hearted manner in which Glendale has received the company and are going ahead with plans which will put the factory in operation as soon as possible. It has been a great pleasure to come into new territory and find everybody enthusiastic and ready to take your hand and make you feel at home. We are certainly glad to be with you."

MODERN WOODMEN OF AMERICA

The new camp of the Modern Woodmen now in course of organization in Glendale bids fair to start off well. Up to this time there are about 50 names attached to the charter petition with a large number ready to sign the petition. There will be 50 to 75 old members living in the city of Glendale who will transfer their membership to this camp and help to boost the new camp.

A preliminary meeting of the charter petitioners will be held next Friday evening, May 27, in the I. O. O. F. hall, and all those interested in the society or who may wish to join as charter members are requested to report at the hall at 8 o'clock sharp.

District Deputy A. P. Martin of Pasadena and Henry Molz of our city will be present to complete the list of charter members. Bring your friends and come to this meeting.

YOUNG CONTRACTOR NOW MAKING GOOD

Among the younger building contractors rapidly forging to the front in Glendale is Ben Sherwood. About three months ago he sold the apartment house at Pacific and Vine and secured from the purchaser a contract to erect a 4-room bungalow on the rear. Since then he has landed eight more contracts ranging from a garage to a 5-room bungalow. He is now engaged on a residence of 5 rooms at 1138 North Louise for C. W. Ingledue and one of the same size at 342 West Cerritos for H. C. Oltsch, each to cost about $2500.

Ben is now preparing to branch out on a larger scale and will build a handsome business office of hollow tile with stucco exterior, in Spanish style, at 313 South Brand. He will have as partner a well-known architect and designer, John Cass, son of A. B. Cass, president of the Southern California Telephone Company. He has attended the Boston School of Technology, and is now instructor in architecture and technology at Occidental.

Ben is an ex-service boy and he started out at once to make his own way after returning to civil life.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH RECEPTION

The reception for the 164 new members at the Presbyterian church will be held this Thursday evening, May 26, from 8 to 10 o'clock. A splendid program and delightful time is planned. All new members are urged to come and get acquainted, all former members are asked to follow the Golden Rule and be on hand to give the new people a royal welcome, and all interested friends are cordially invited to come. Eight to 10 o'clock at the Presbyterian church, Broadway and Cedar. "The Church of the Lighted Cross."

VOICE OF DUMB GIRL RESTORED

(By International News Service)

DENVER, Colo., May 25.—Miss Edna Kemper, of North Bend, Neb., has had her voice restored by an airplane flight, according to an announcement here by Dr. E. D. Starbird, of this city, who recommended the "altitude treatment."

Miss Kemper climbed 6100 feet above Denver, or more than 11,000 feet above sea level, in her effort to regain the power of speech, establishing a new altitude record for women in the Rocky mountain region. She was in the air about 50 minutes.

The experiment with Miss Kemper was the first of the kind ever made in the west, although the therapeutic value of the air flights for loss of speech has been established in a few cases in other parts of the country.

Miss Kemper has been afflicted for a year with semi-paralysis of the vocal cords and has been unable to speak above a whisper. She came to Denver recently from her home in South Bend, Neb., and consulted Dr. Starbird, who told her of successful altitude treatments in the east.

"On the fifth day after the flight," Dr. Starbird said, "Miss Kemper's voice came back to her. Two days later she lost her voice again for two hours, but it came back then apparently as strong and clear as previously. Her voice is perfectly clear now, but hardly strong enough to permit her to shout. I believe it will gradually strengthen, however, and become normal in every respect."

Miss Kemper lost her voice following an attack of influenza.

EDITH DAY NAMED IN LONDON DIVORCE

(By International News Service)

LONDON, May 25.—In the climax of the most sensational stage divorce case in many years in London, involving members of British society, Miss Edith Day, American actress and popular star in "Irene," was named as the "other woman" alleged to have come between Margaret Bannerman, the famous Canadian actress, and her husband, Pat Somerset. The announcement astonished all London theatergoers, with whom Edith Day and Margaret Bannerman are great favorites.

Edith Day

Miss Day's name was dragged into the case by a maid witness who testified that she was formerly connected with Miss Day's household in the actress' home at Torquay. The witness said she was discharged by Miss Day when the latter learned she had been called to London to testify.

Miss Bannerman won her decree of divorce, although the charges placed against Somerset were denied but not contested. Somerset's name in private life is Holme-Sumner, and he is a son of a captain in the Royal navy.

Surprise was manifested among the London social elite when it was learned that the popular young American actress is a married woman, her husband being an American theatrical producer. Miss Day's professional and personal success here was little short of phenomenal.

It's bad enough to get run over by an automobile if you get in the way, but to deliberately have a car weighing 2300 pounds and a combination weight of 450 pounds of human flesh, is what John Pesch of San Francisco had run over his chest on a bet. Pesch is a "strong man" and showed no ill effects of the test.

Writ of Audita Querela Being Sought for Mooney

Under Life Sentence in San Quentin for Preparedness Day Bombing in San Francisco—Urges That Hatcher Be Permitted to Take Stand to Prove No Perjury

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Arguments in the legal proceeding for a writ of audita querela, through which freedom and a new trial are sought for Thomas J. Mooney, under life sentence at San Quentin for the preparedness day bombing in 1916 here, were conducted today before Superior Judge Harold Louderback without the presence of Mooney. The former labor leader was returned to San Quentin last night, but not before he had made a dramatic personal plea on his own behalf.

Rising to his feet just after a brief recess late yesterday and before attorneys for either side of the proceeding were aware what was happening, Mooney requested permission from the court to make a statement. Judge Louderback granted him permission and Mooney forcefully pleaded that Earl Hatcher be permitted to take the stand in order to prove "that no perjury existed, but that a criminal conspiracy existed to send me to prison."

Hatcher was not permitted to testify in the writ proceeding, but last night he went before the grand jury and told his story. As a result, it was reported today that Frank C. Oxman, Oregon cattleman, may be reindicted for perjury. Hatcher is declared to have testified that Oxman, one of the star witnesses against Mooney, was not in San Francisco at the time of the bomb explosion, arriving there three hours after it had occurred. He is understood to have declared that Oxman was in Woodland, Calif., and at Hatcher's home up until 2 p. m. on the day of the explosion. It is understood that District Attorney Matthew Brady had uncovered corroborative evidence of Hatcher's statement. No decision in the proceedings for a writ of audita querela will be handed down for several days, Judge Louderback indicated today.

SILVER GREY FOX FARM ON ISLAND

(By International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 25.—A former "sourdough" miner and a shipwrecked sailor are proprietors of one of the most unique "farms" in the north country, raising silver grey foxes on the island of Ugak, six miles off Kodiak island, in the Pacific Ocean, near the Alaskan coast.

Z. T. Hafferty went to Alaska during the gold rush of '97, and after experiencing various shades of fortune decided that fox farming is a better method of making money than mining. Gus Olsen, his partner, arrived at Ugak island on a bit of driftwood after being shipwrecked in 1898, and has never left the north land.

The two bought the entire island, consisting of about 50,000 acres seven years ago and "planted" three pairs of silver grey foxes. These have multiplied until 60 pairs now roam their land, and within two years the two "old timers" expect to sell 50 pelts each spring.

Hafferty arrived in Portland a short time ago with 16 pelts to be disposed of, and will return to Alaska in a few weeks. They expect to make their permanent home in Ugak.

Hafferty is United States commissioner at Kodiak, and Olsen now does most of the work on the ranch.

"For ten months of the year he is the only human inhabitant of the island," said Hafferty. "But it is a life he loves.

Acts as Policeman

"Our main trouble is with eagles," Hafferty continued. "They swoop down and carry away the fox pups when they are too young and small to protect themselves. Olsen devotes most of his time in the spring and early summer to killing these eagles. This spring we shipped 65 pairs of eagle claws to Juneau, for which we received 50 cents each in bounty. Olsen spends the rest of his time patrolling the island against native hunters who attempt to land and trap the animals we are farming."

One might get the idea that these animals are domesticated, but they wander over the island at will, and must be trapped just as though they didn't live on a farm.

One Pair Worth $1500

"We hired two native trappers during the winter," Hafferty explained, "paying them $50 a month and $5 a pelt bonus, in addition to their board. Thus far we have not been compelled to feed the foxes, as the island is well stocked with game and fish drift into shore with the cross currents. When a large whale goes ashore it provides food for the foxes for at least six months."

"At present market quotations a pair of young silver grey foxes, alive, are worth $1500, Hafferty said. Native Indians capture the fox pups and raise them from spring until fall when they are old enough to sell and place on the farm. The animals mate during February and the young are born in May.

There is only one other fox farm in Alaska, on Middleton island, near Valdez. It is the larger of the two, but Hafferty hopes within a few years to raise as many bearers of Milady's furs as the Middleton island farm.

Steward—"Where did you put them last night?"

Passenger—"I folded them up carefully and put them in that cupboard over there."

Steward—"I see no cupboard, sir."

Passenger—"Are you blind, man? I mean that one with the round glass door to it."

Steward—"Lor' bless me, sir, that ain't no cupboard. That's the port hole."—New York Globe.

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS WETTEST SPOT

Moderation Act Will Permit Tourists and Residents to Imbibe Freely

(By International News Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 25.—There is going to be one perfectly gorgeous time in British Columbia when the new Moderation Act goes into effect. At least the government seems to think so, for even before the new liquor commission which is to take care of the selling end got into harness, a thoughtful department had ordered carloads of champagne. So far, however, the day when the prohibition lid is to come off has not been announced. Once the champagne is here, however, there ought to be no further occasion for delay.

Judging by the daily announcements from the liquor commission's office the press agency has been put into competent hands. The publicity is of a kind calculated to put a very nice edge on the prevailing thirst. There is talk not only of the best and soundest whiskeys, of real beer and English ale, but also liqueurs and wines of rare vintage. The commission is out to satisfy the taste of the connoisseur—as well as that of the man who merely wants something with a kick in it. Even the Oriental palate is to be catered to, orders having already gone across the Pacific for the lines of saki and other strong waters specially favored by the Japanese and Chinese, who, by the way, are to have liquor stores in their own "towns."

Rival of Garden of Eden

Let it be understood clearly, however, that the business is to be conducted in a dignified manner. A gentleman will no more take his bottle home under his arm than he would carry a suit away from his tailor's. There will be no sign of liquor, in fact, about the salesrooms. The prospective imbiber will go into a business office and give his order, not to a white-coated bartender, but to a refined, black-coated, floorwalker-sort-of-person, who will hand him a receipt for his money after endorsing the quantity of the order on his permit. A day or two later a van from the liquor warehouse situated far away from the liquor office will deliver the goods at the address where they are required. The delivery charge is to be absorbed in the purchase price. Of course, if the purchaser insists, he can go around to the warehouse and take up his consignment himself, a method that is likely to be adopted by persons desirous of avoiding both the domestic and general publicity attending the arrival of the liquor commission's vehicle at the door.

Two prophecies are very generally made. The first is that the government will succeed in its effort to put the bootlegger out of business by crushing competition; the other that it will also succeed in provoking a demand so strong for the total abolition of the liquor traffic that the framers of the next prohibition law for British Columbia declared due about the spring of 1922, will be able to give cards and spades to the man who wrote the eighteenth amendment to the United States constitution and even to Mr. Volstead himself when it comes to formulating a really bone-dry act.

Ho, for motor transport! It now ranks second only to the railroads of the country as carriers of freight. The tonnage carried in 1920 by the various classes of carriers follow: Interurban trolley, 4,000,000 tons; Mississippi and Great Lakes, 90,000,000 tons; motor trucks, 1,200,000,000 tons; railroads, 2,504,000,000 tons.

FOREMOST WOMAN OF WORLD

Madame Curie, eminent French scientist, the discoverer of radium, has received from the hand of President Harding the gramme of radium purchased for her in the interest of humanitarian research by the women of America.

Madame Curie's wonderful scientific triumph, which she won by the practice of untold patience, perseverance and skill, has already wrought many benefits to the human race and is believed to have in store many that are richer still.

With remarkable unanimity, her own sex proclaim Mme. Curie the foremost woman of the world, a title she well deserves. With the heroism of a martyr she has sacrificed alluring prospects of home, fortune and position, that she might devote herself entirely to the welfare of the human race.

Madame Curie craved one gramme of radium with which to carry on experiments looking toward a cure for cancer, a disease especially prevalent among women. As soon as her desire became known in the United States, prominent women of the country immediately set about raising the $100,000 which it would cost to procure it for her. It was fitting that leading Catholic women, among them Mrs. William Brown Maloney of New York, should be especially active in this campaign, since Madame Curie is a devout adherent of their faith, a woman who is an honor to the church as well as to womanhood. President Harding, when he handed over to her the little phial with its precious contents bestowed upon her a meed of praise and honor, in the name of the American people, which is due to pre-eminence in science, in scholarship, research and humanitarianism; but, with all that, this meed of honor was something more; it was the testimony of that respect and love which all generations of men have been wont to bestow upon the noble woman, the unselfish wife, the devoted mother.

President Harding has seen fit to change the civil service regulations relating to postmasters of the first, second and third class postoffices. During the Wilson administration the applicant ranking highest in the civil service examination was appointed postmaster. Mr. Harding has changed the ruling so that he may appoint any one of the three highest. It is hoped this change was not made to permit political preference to enter into the appointments.

The immigrant's first lesson is that under the protecting branches of the tree of liberty one must still root for a living.

The next step after beating swords into plowshares is to change heroes into bill collectors.

And then there's another fine thing about heaven—you can't get much of a jazz effect with golden harps.

Pictures from Yap show that the natives at least have self-determination in the matter of haberdashery.

Somehow, the amateur gardener seems to vanish from the horizon about the time the weeds start coming along.

GRAVE AND GAY

GREAT ACCIDENTS

"Some of the grandest discoveries of the ages have been the result of accidents," said the great scientist sonorously.

"I can readily believe that," said the fair young lady. "I once made one that way myself."

The great man blinked his amazement. "May I ask what it was?"

"Certainly," replied the fair one. "I found that by keeping a bottle of ink handy you can use a fountain pen just like any other pen—without all the trouble of filling it."

NEW SLOGAN

Sunlight, smiling every day,
Tries to push the clouds away.
Fields and forests here below
Welcome life and try to grow.
Everything is on the move
To revise and to improve,
All the world disdains to shirk;
Hear the call,—"Let's go to work."

EARNING HIS DEGREE

The visiting minister had come to hold a meeting for the local pastor and the son of the pastor asked his mother what to call the visiting minister.

"Call him doctor," said the mother, "I think he has a Ph.D."

Does it make one a doctor to wear a B. V. D.?" queried the boy.

A JOKE ON THE DENTIST

"I heard ye had a tooth pulled, Mrs. Finnegan.

"Yis, an sure it's a great joke on th' dintist."

"How so?"

"He claimed to be wan iv thim painless wans, an Oi wor nivir so nearly kilt in me whole loife."

PROPER THING

Mrs. Willis—"Have you heard the little Bump girl sing?"

Mr. Willis—"Yes."

Mrs. Willis—"Don't you think she ought to be sent abroad?"

Mr. Willis—"Sure; deport her, by all means."

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

"You make more fuss about losing a nickel than I'd make about losing a hundred dollars."

"Boss," said the boy, "you've got the wrong idea. The chances are you've got another hundred. But that was my last nickel. 'Tain't what you lose that makes the difference; it's what you've got left."

TIME FOR A NEW ONE

Little Grace—"Don't you think that I ought to have a new doll, mama?"

Mama—"Why, dear, your old one is just as good as ever."

Little Grace—"Well, I'm just as good as ever too, but the angels brought you a new baby."

SHORT ON MEMORY

Small Lulu—"Why are sailors so forgetful, papa?"

Papa—"I didn't know they were, dear."

Small Lulu—"Then why do they have to weigh anchor every time they start on a voyage?"

WONDERFUL!

"Don't you think my new suit is a perfect fit?"

"Fit? Why, it's a perfect convulsion!"

GENEROSITY EXEMPLIFIED

Patrick worked for a notoriously stingy boss and let no chance to let the fact be known. One day a waggish friend, wishing to twit him, remarked: "Pat, I hear your boss just gave you a brand new suit of clothes."

"No," said Pat, "only par-r-rt of a suit."

"What part?"

"The sleeves av the vist!"

GREAT MAN

Sunday School Teacher—"What do you know about Good Friday, Willie?"

Small Willie—"He was Robinson Crusoe's valet."

Adam blamed Eve for his meanness, but there were no movies then.

Series of Articles on Patents, Inventions, Etc.

By WILLIAM C. CUTLER of Glendale, California

General Information

The last patent issued to me was number 1,358,299. It seems singular, in view of the fact that this number of patents have been issued from the United States patent office, forming such an important part of our industrial system, that both inventors and manufacturers of patented articles, should have so many erroneous impressions in relation to the patent law, both as to the privileges accruing under letters patent and the qualifications implied by the statutes.

It will be noted that the specific information which I desire to convey on the different subjects, follows an informal opening of the chapters and is arranged in the form of a catechism. This method is chosen for several reasons. Information by question and answer is the elemental form of instruction, it is simplicity personified. In requiring the reader to frame his own question, it assists him in fixing the answer in his mind more positively than would the same information arranged in paragraph form. It also tends to relieve the mental strain which frequently accompanies the reading of technical subjects, and in addition enables ready reference to be made to the separate topics under each heading.

A.—17 years.

Q.—Extending life of patents. Is it permitted?

A.—Not since 1861 without a special act of congress.

Q.—Meaning of patent. What is it?

A.—An exclusive privilege, granted under statutes enacted by congress, in pursuance of powers conferred on it by the constitution. A document, issued in the name of the United States of America, and signed by the commissioner of patents.

Q.—Patent in common terms. What is it?

A.—The grant of a monopoly for 17 years.

Q.—Nature of patent grant. What is it?

A.—The inventor is given the exclusive right, by the government, to make, use, and vend the invention for 17 years, practically as a recompense or reward for the benefit the public derives from its utility while protected, and for the right of the public to make it without restraint, after the expiration of the patent.

Q.—Patentee. Who is he?

A.—The person to whom a patent is granted.

Q.—Interest besides inventor's. Who is considered to have as much interest in the invention as the patentee?

A.—The public.

Q.—"Contract theory" of invention. What is it?

A.—A theory based on the following presumption: That if an inventor makes a discovery in any art—the invention combining novelty and utility—and will clearly describe the method of construction and operation, to enable any one versed in the art, to readily manufacture it, thereby securing the benefits to the public, the inventor is entitled to the use of the machinery of justice—represented by the federal courts—for 17 years, to prevent others making, using, or vending his particular method or means.

Q.—Rights under a patent. What are they?

A.—"The exclusive right to make, to use, and to vend (sell) the invention throughout the United States and Territories."

Q.—Guarantee. Does the government guarantee a patent?

A.—No. On the contrary it designates all improvements as "alleged" in granting patents.

Q.—Common law right. Does it confer any paramount (that which will prevail) right in an invention?

A.—No. An invention, unless patented, has no right under common law.

Q.—Stopping infringer. How can it be done?

A.—By going before a federal court and commencing action against him.

Q.—Inventors' moral rights. What is the cause of the widespread impression, that inventors' rights are unfairly dealt with by manufacturers?

A.—The fact that inventors are frequently unable to understand the agreements submitted by the manufacturer. The attorney for the manufacturer naturally draws up the agreement, including as favorable terms as possible for his own client, possibly with some phrase, the importance of which is not understood by the inventor. The inventor expects to be treated fairly, but is frequently incapable of putting his desires into words, in the form of a contract, and consequently is sometimes imposed upon, if he neglects to secure counsel competent to advise him on both the legal and commercial aspects of the contract. Nowhere else is the old adage, "knowledge is power," better exemplified than it is in relation to the subjects of patents. This is true from both the inventor's and investor's interests.

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

Odd, how letters run. For a week now it seems that every person who has written me wants to know how to make bread.

"I want home-made bread and try so hard to make it, but when I have worked and worried with it the neighbor's chickens usually get it," one wails. "My husband loves hot rolls, but I can't seem to make them. Please tell me how," begs a bride, and so on.

I think the best advice I can give to those who really desire to make bread is to buy a bread mixer. They are not expensive, and they will pay for themselves many times over in convenience. And an over thermometer. "If you can hold your hand in the oven and count ten it is right for biscuits," we are told, and there are a whole list of other rules, but how much simpler and better to get a thermometer and know what your oven heat is.

Get a Motor

Do not get a mixer that is larger than necessary, or the dough will not be well mixed. Then, if it can be arranged at all, get a tiny electric motor for your kitchen. Bread mixing will be a lark, cake mixing a joy, and think of watching ice cream freeze itself, and mayonnaise blend and thicken while you watch it!

Well, to return to bread making. With a mixer and a good recipe it will become a routine task, one that will produce almost uniform results.

Both compressed yeast and dry yeast are satisfactory. Fresh yeast is an even sand color, unmarred by dark streaks, and should break easily.

Use, of course, only the best grades of bread flour and sift it before using. Sugar is not used in bread merely as a matter of taste, but to furnish food for the little yeast plants that furnish the carbon dioxide gas that raises the bread (what a circle). So you see that sugar is necessary. The shortening may be vegetable fat, butter or lard, or equal parts of butter and vegetable fat. Water, milk, or equal parts of both is used for the liquid.

To Mix the Dough

Set the bread to raise in the mixer either in the morning or at night. I prefer the morning, as it is easier to keep the temperature right and watch the raising process.

Put in the bread mixer four tablespoons of shortening, four tablespoons of sugar and five teaspoons of salt, all level. Pour over these ingredients a quart of scalding liquid—milk, water or milk and water. This will melt the shortening.

In the meantime soften two yeast cakes in one-quarter cup of luke-warm water. Just luke-warm, remember, not hot. When the mixture in the mixer has cooled to luke-warm add the softened yeast. Sift, then measure 13 cups of bread flour, and add all at once to the yeast and the liquid in the mixer. Turn the handle steadily for three minutes.

Grease the sides so that the dough can readily be removed after it has raised, then cover, wrap towels around it, and place where it is warm. Allow the dough to double its bulk. Then by turning the handle of the mixer two or three times the dough is pulled around the blade, leaving the sides clean so the dough can be lifted out. Shape into loaves. It is better to make small loaves than large ones.

Bake 45 Minutes

It should not take longer than three-quarters of an hour to bake. The oven temperature should be 350 F. If rolls are made, bake for 20 minutes in a temperature of 425.

If the warm crust is rubbed with butter, it will be tender. A crisp crust can be obtained by rubbing with the white of one egg beaten stiff. Turn on a rack to cool so that the air can circulate freely around the loaves. The broiler rack is splendid for this.

To Use Old Bread

Slice bread ½ inch thick. In one bowl pour 1½ cups milk. In another bowl beat two eggs till creamy, adding a pinch of salt. Dip slice of bread in milk first and then in egg, fry in butter till brown on both sides. Powder lightly with powdered sugar. Serve while hot.

Freshening Rolls

Frequently muffins, gems, cornbread, branbread, etc., are a part of the evening dinner and seldom are all eaten during the evening meal, some being left over.

The question comes to the conscientious housewife: "How can I serve them again in their original freshness?"

Citizens

Have You Registered?

Do you realize there are from 1800 to 2000 unregistered voters in Glendale? The most of these have lost their right of franchise by moving to a different precinct. Some are newcomers here, but are eligible to vote if registered.

In view of the fact that on June 28 an entire group of elective officials are to be chosen it is incumbent on you to register, so as to be able to meet any contingency that may arise.

If you have not registered since January 1, 1920—Register. You must have been a resident of the state one year; county, 90 days, and precinct, 30 days.

Register at Chamber of Commerce or with Mrs. Myton, 104 South Glendale avenue, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and at Roberts & Echols' Drug Store or at Old Tropico City Hall Library after 5 p. m.

IMPORTANT CITY ELECTION JUNE 28.

REGISTRATION BOOKS CLOSE MAY 28.

Better register while you have the opportunity than to wish you had, later.

FLIGHT DEFERRED BY AMERICAN ACE RICKENBACKER

(By International News Service)

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., May 25.—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, American ace, who will attempt a one-stop flight from San Francisco to Washington, decided to postpone his departure until tomorrow. Captain Rickenbacker arrived here last night at 7:10 from Los Angeles and after a conference with army air service officers, decided to have the 400-horsepower army de Haviland completely overhauled before starting the flight. Mechanics worked late last night on the machine and expect to take the greater part of today in tuning the machine up. Thursday morning Captain Rickenbacker will hop off at daylight and expects to be in Omaha before nightfall. Friday morning he will take to the air at daylight and hopes to land in Washington by eventide. He will attend a reunion Saturday night of those who accompanied General Pershing across the Atlantic on the Baltic in 1917.

WOULD SIMPLIFY MATTERS

A tired little boy sat on the curb with his chin resting in his hands.
"I wish I was rich!" he exclaimed.
"What would you do with your money if you were rich?" asked one of his playmates.
"I'd buy a great big motor car," answered the little chap, "so's I could fly my kite out of the back end of it without running my legs off."

'CLEAN-UP SALE IN' CENTRAL BUILDING

Ladies of the Church of the Holy Family are rejoicing in the fact that clear skies and fair weather are meted out to Glendale today, for this is favorable to their plan of a "Clean-Up Sale" at the hall in the Central building, 115½ East Broadway, this evening.

Weather conditions were not so propitious a short time ago when these ladies held an all-day fete at La Ramada, and although they made $600 on that occasion, there were a number of aprons, fancy articles and other things left over; hence the "clean-up sale" this evening.

Ice cream and cake will be served this evening, as well as bargains in aprons and fancy work.

OUR COUNTRYMEN ARE IN HARD LUCK

(By International News Service)

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 25.—Surprises like bolts from clear skies, marked the morning round of the British amateur golf tournament here today when Bobbie Jones, the Atlanta, Ga., star, and Cyril Tolley, English champion were put out of the running for the championship cup.

Jones was defeated by A. J. Graham of the Royal Liverpool club, 6 up and 5 to play. Tolley dropped from the field when he lost his match with John B. Beddard, of Pennsylvania, 3 up and 1 to play.

ALPHA OMEGAS ARE ENTERTAINED

Miss Katherine Weisling, 621 East Colorado street, was hostess last evening to the Alpha Omega class of the First Christian church at a meeting combining business and pleasure.

A committee was named to take charge of a membership and attendance contest with the "Live Cole" class, and wise plans were outlined for a unique entertainment to be given in July.

Merry games and congenial conversation were the diversions of the social session following the business meeting. Nellie Leggitt was the winner of the first prize in a guessing contest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

SQUARING MATTERS

Smith walked up the street with a box of chocolates under one arm and a parcel of meat under the other.
"Hello, Smith," remarked an acquaintance. "Been shopping? I did not know you were married."
"I'm not yet."
"What are you going to do with the chocolates and meat, then?"
"Going to see my girl."
"Do you furnish the family with meat?"
"Oh, no; the sweets are for the girl and the meat for the dog. I have to square both."

HE WAS SHELLSHOCKED

A shell shock victim went to the highlands of Scotland for his health. He rented lodgings from an old lady in a remote village, and the first day of his stay he had bolide eggs for breakfast, boiled eggs for dinner and bolide eggs for supper. After he had supper he went out and bought a pound of sausage in skins. He returned and slapped the sausage down before the old lady. "Here, I'm tired of eggs. Cook this sausage for my breakfast tommorrow."
"Vera goot," said the old lady. "But how will I cook it"
"Why, fry it like fish," said the victim. In the morning when the old lady appeared with the sausage the poor fellow nearly had a relapse.
"I hope ye'll like yer breakfast this mornin' when they're all cleaned out."

Science in Life

A reader having witnessed at a social gathering the "explosion" of a cut-glass vessel, wonders what force could have produced it. She does not say under what circumstances the accident happened. It may have been caused by a slight tap upon the glass, or by a sudden application of heat, or by some acid, as vinegar, put into the vessel.

By any of these means the equilibrium of the molecular forces, or forces of cohesion, holding the particles of glass rigidly together, could be upset, whereupon the "explosion" would occur, the destructive energy coming not from witnout but from within the glass.

The occurrence was a proof that when the vessel was made the particle of glass did not all settle into a position of easy repose under the action of the cohesive force gripping them together.

Glass, being a highly elastic substance, continues indefinitely to resist any stress that tends to deform it. It does not obediently adopt a form imposed upon it, but flies back again to its original shape when the compelling force is removed. Thus its particles are already ready to take advantage of any sudden removal of the stress tht is keeping them in a strained position.

The little philosophical playthings called Ruperts drops furnish an instance in point. These glass drops are suddenly cooled during their formation from a molten mass, and the surface becomes rigid before the interior has ceased to shrink, the consequence being that a stress is brought to bear, pulling inward upon the outer shell.

When the filament which forms a sort of stem to the drop is broken, the equilibrium of the forces is destroyed and the glass particles are bound with such energy that the drop is blown to powder. The breaking of the stem acts like the pulling of a trigger in releasing the strained particles, and in fact, the principle of the Rupert drop was once employed in exploding bombshells.

Few ever stop to think of the various forces that hold the world together and of how essential it is that these forces shall be in a state of equilibrium if things are to remain as they are. The force, or attraction of cohesion, for instance, manifests its power only at distances so minute that we cannot measure them and yet if it were destroyed all bodies would fall into an impalpable powder.

On the other hand, the force of gravitation extends apparently to illimitable distances, though diminishing in intensity as the distance increases. But an upsetting of gravity would throw the whole universe into confusion and disorder.

The destruction or sudden removal of the reins of gravitation from the polar system would have a similar effect to that which the tap on the strained glass dish would produce. It would set the planets free, and each would go speeding off in the direction in which it was heading at that instant—the direction of a tangent to the curve in which it had been traveling around the sun.

A correspondent at Elmhurst, Ill., would like to know why substances cannot be compressed until there is no room left between the particles, so that they constitute one uniform solid body, with no motion possible for the molecules. "Is there anything between the molecules?" he asks, "and if so, why cannot that thing be compressed?"

This is rather a philosophical than a scientific question. It has never been demonstrated that there is anysuch thing as an absolute solid, but if there really be none science is in no position to say why. The biggest objects that can be called "bodies" in the ordinary sense of that word are the stars. But the space between the stars is enormous compared with their total bulk.

If that space is completely occupied by something which we do not know how to describe at any rate, it appears to offer no resistance to the movements of the stars through it in all directions. Now, if a compression from all sides could be put upon the starry system it might be that before these bodies could be squeezed into a uniform solid a resistance would be encountered which would always suffice to compel the leaving of a certain amount of space between the stars, just as when a gas is compressed into a liquid the liquid refuses to be compressed any further, or, at least, to anything like the same degree, and we find that there is still room between the molecules.

The fact is, of course, that the molecules are made up of atoms with space between them, while the atoms, in their turn, are made up of electrons with an abundance of space between them, and the utmost compression that we have means of putting upon the gross bodies composed of these smaller and smaller things seems incapable of squeezing the molecules themselves, and much less the atoms, into smaller space. So that even if we could compress the molecules into absolute contact there would still be plenty of apparently unoccupied space included in our supposedly solid body.

Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. John Gardiner and S. W. Shaull.

The young cooks and hostesses who prepared and served the dinner under direction of Miss Hanson were: Misses Edith Schuyler, Marguerite McGuire, Dorothy Kendall, Kathryn Gray, Helen Cobb, Marguerite Mandaville, Elaine Francis, Lois Schuyler, Eleanor Foster, Dorothy Manner, Viola Andrews.

The dinner was served at 6:30 and lasted until 8:45, as there was much pleasant chat along with the meal and Dr. H. V. Brown and S. W. Shaull voiced the appreciation of guests in felicitous little speeches.

Following was the menu:

Strawberries au natural. These were served on a doily edged with red and black, centered with a grape leaf dusted with sugar on which the berries rested.

Consomme was the second course.

Then came Salmon Housseline, sliced cucumbers and bread and butter sandwiches.

The substantials came next with beef tenderloins, paprika potatoes, butter and asparagus, rolls and butter and cherry ice.

Tomato salad followed with black olives stuffed with red pimientos (to carry out the color scheme) and saltines.

The dessert was featured as G. U. H. S. Special; canned peaches filled with ice cream with a crushed raspberry sauce. With this was served a fancy cake covered with a white frosting edged with red and bearing the initials G. U. H. S. in chocolate.

UNIQUE PROGRAM

won every heart by the sweet naturalness.

An outstanding number was put on by Broadway, always in the van. It was a sailors' hornpipe, danced by six little boys in white sailor suits, the pupils of Miss Dorothy Dutton. That too, was a treat the audience released reluctantly.

Again the high school came to the fore with a reading by Doris Packer entitled "A Pleasant Half-Hour at the Beach" by Margaret Denton. This was an amusing monologue that convulsed the audience and won such applause that Miss Packer responded with an Italian dialect number, "23 Skidoo," as an encore.

Immediately following came little Margot Buxton, the wonderful child dancer, representing Cerritos avenue. Her first number, a clown dance especially adapted to her display of bodily control, so delighted the audience that she, too, gave an encore, a barefoot fancy dance that was exceedingly pretty.

Columbus avenue was then represented by a charming butterfly dance executed by eight little girls and one boy.

Gould Moore, whose talents are not unknown to Glendale audiences, represented Acacia avenue school with a monologue song and dance which made a great hit. He responded with the number, "Foolish Questions."

As the program advanced, it became evident that Glendale has a great deal of talent in her grammar schools. Colorado was represented by little Julia Pelley in a beautiful costume as a barefoot Oriental dancer.

Pacific avenue had another number furnished by a boy violinist, and then the advertisements began again.

Grogan's olives were featured in a pretty setting which included Marian Curtis in Quaker costume.

Broadway advertised Mary Jane coffee.

A little girl from Doran street school advertised the Dolls hospital with a parody song to the tune of "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Paramount pictures were advertised by an amusing pantomime of a picture show put on by Intermediate.

The program closed with all the younger children on the stage as a picture of "Glendale's Best Product," and after singing a verse of "America" the audience dispersed.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

REDDING, May 25.—Indian vengeance lurking for eight years in an aborigine's breast was satisfied today. Oscar McCardie, a Klamath river Indian, was shot twice and killed near Corning by an Indian from the Hoopa tribe. One bullet went through McCardie's neck and severed the jugular vein and another entered his back and came out through his breast. McCardie died with a pitchfork in his hand. His assassin escaped in an automobile, going north.

BERLIN, May 25.—The Silesian town of Lescnitz, which was recently occupied by German volunteers, is under bombardment by Polish artillery, said advices from the "Silesian front" today. Polish attacks against the Germans in the Rosenberg sector were repulsed. The Germans captured an armored train.

Putting it off today won't get it done tomorrow.

Announces Candidacy

Editor Glendale Press: Having been requested by a number of my friends to announce myself as a candidate for the office of trustee of the city of Glendale, I hereby make such announcement of my candidacy, and respectfully request the votes of the citizens who cast their ballots at the election to be held June 28, 1921.

If I am chosen by the electors as trustee of the city of Glendale, I pledge myself to work for a clean, sane, progressive city government. I shall favor all measures in harmony with the constitution of the United States and of the state of California, and oppose such measures as are contrary to the spirit and letter of these great principles of American citizenship.

Respectfully,
C. E. KIMLIN.

An Aspirant for City Clerk

Editor Glendale Press: Petitions are now in circulation for the nomination of Guy F. Maxwell for city clerk. Guy was reared and received his education here in the primary schools. He was graduated from California School of Technology of Pasadena, also Vander Naillen School of Mines at Oakland, Cal. Later Mr. Maxwell was instructor of chemistry and metalurgy at the same school for about two years. Still later he held the position of assistant chief chemist with a large mining company in Bisbee, Ariz. Guy has a good clean character and standing.

MARGOT BUXTON HIGHLY HONORED

Little Margot Buxton, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Turck of this city, who is a wonderful little dancer, has just been honored by the professional, Frederick Kovert, the peacock dancer, who has asked her to appear with him in a program to be given at Hotel Ambassador, June 24. As her dancing is performed with wonderful ease and spontaneity her friends are not surprised that he has thus singled her out for distinction. Both were on a program given by the Federation of P. E. O. organizations at their convention in Burbank recently.

Practice makes perfect. It's an old saying but a good one. It is one of the prime factors in the success of Will Rogers, Goldwyn's cowboy star and wit, who has amused thousands with his roping and his witty sayings. He is continually practicing with his lariat and his tongue.

He usually begins his day of practice—or play—whichever one could call it, when he arrives at the studio at 9 o'clock and goes promptly to the barber shop for his daily shave. There he reads the morning papers and interprets the news to his friends. Needless to say, while Rogers is in the barber shop, standing room is at a premium. One of his favorite stunts is to sit in the barber chair and read aloud Hugh Wiley's negro stories in the Saturday Evening Post, keeping his audience in an uproar with his unique enunciation of the negro dialect.

When he is working on a picture he finds time between scenes to twirl his rope about two hours a day. His cowboy friends always gather on the set and the various roping tricks are tried over and over again. Recently, Rogers was filming "Doubling for Romeo," and had to wear the extensive wardrobe that every gentleman was supposed to own in the Shakespearean days. He caused many laughs trying to whirl his rope while wearing these clothes, which usually were in the way.

Between pictures Rogers gets some real practice. He keeps some goats on the back lot at the Goldwyn studios, where he and his friends have goat roping contests. Rogers holds the record for roping, throwing and tying a goat, having accomplished that task in exactly seven seconds.

His wit comes in handy in titling his pictures. The film editor is constantly on the set and takes down all the remarks Rogers makes while acting a scene. These remarks are later incorporated into the film.

Metcalf-Hinckley's management is operating in the big companies' way—drilling on ground that is PROVEN, SURESHOT oil land! They have picked Huntington Beach as a winner—and their judgment is being borne out as well after well moves production to the very edge of Metcalf-Hinckley's leases! In the same block the Pantages-Huntington has the oil—and has it in immense amount! There can be no doubt that Metcalf-Hinckley will likewise get the oil! That means profit to you—if you are a Metcalf-Hinckley stockholder!

You'll have to act promptly—the derrick's up—drilling to start immediately—stock going fast at 10c Per Share

BE QUICK

If you did not go to Huntington Beach Tuesday see someone who did go and find out what they think of Metcalf-Hinckley.
